

Goldwater Says He'll Make Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says "I'm pretty certain that I'll make a bid for the Republican presidential nomination, but I want to make up my mind by myself, in my own time."

Goldwater indicated his position in an article in the current edition of McCall's magazine. It was written by Thomas Meehan before the Nov. 22 assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

West Berliners Vie For Passes

BERLIN (AP) — Police reserves were called out Wednesday to control crowds of West Berliners besieging officers for permits to visit relatives in East Berlin at Christmas.

When the 12 permit offices in West Berlin closed for the day at 6 p.m., there still were long lines of people waiting outside to file for permits. Some became angry.

Police appealed through loudspeakers to people to disperse and come back Thursday. There were angry complaints from disappointed applicants. At one office extra police were called out to disperse those who refused to go away, officials reported.

Johnson Plans Family Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since he took the oath of office almost four weeks ago, President Johnson has been working 18-hour days. Now he would like to take a little rest.

"I hope to spend Christmas Eve with my sisters, my brothers, my uncles, cousins, aunts and my family," he told a news conference Wednesday.

"Immediately after Christmas I am going to relax a little."

"I might even—I don't want to keep my secrets from you people—I might even go hunting. I haven't had a chance to do that this year, and I would like to go and spend a day out in the hills, communing with myself."

Accord Averts Holiday Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Settlement of two major labor disputes has ended the threat of strikes that could have disrupted many travelers' annual rush home for Christmas.

The AFL-CIO Machinists Union and United Air Lines, one of the nation's largest air carriers, reached an agreement Wednesday to head off a strike which would start at midnight Wednesday night.

This came only a few hours after Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz announced that the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters had settled its dispute with the railroad. A strike by the porters had been called for midnight Thursday.

Freeman Studies Farm Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has directed Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to draft plans with farm leaders for a broad assault on agricultural problems including the overriding issue of rural poverty.

Freeman reported this to newsmen Wednesday after he and leaders of seven national farm organizations met with Johnson at the White House for nearly an hour.

Later, Johnson told newsmen at an unscheduled news conference that he had asked the farm leaders "to try to find areas of agreement and to give me their recommendations."

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — In a turbulent session, the stock market Wednesday pushed to new highs in some averages but ended the day with a hedge-podge of gains and losses.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been up as much as 3.30 at 1 p.m., closed with a modest gain of .83 at 767.21, bettering Tuesday's historic peak.

The ticker tape was late much of the time and volume swelled to 6.07 million shares from 5.25 million Tuesday.

$500,000 Plastics Plant At Gravel Place Will Hire 200

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — The Mehl Manufacturing Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, a leading producer of plastic packaging materials and packaging equipment, announced yesterday it will build a new plant employing 200 people in Stroud Township.

The announcement was the biggest shot in the arm of the economy of the Pocono Mountain area has received since Oiljack Manufacturing Co. Inc., built its plant in 1958 on W. Main St. in Stroudsburg.

The $500,000 plant will be built on a ten-acre site at Gravel Place on Stokes Mill Rd. to be acquired for about $15,000 from the Erie - Lackawanna Railroad. Construction will begin as soon as weather permits and after old brick, round house buildings on the land are demolished.

Equipment has been placed on order for the proposed plant here and another facility to be built in Perris, Calif. Plant site acreage permits further expansion at each location, a company spokesman said.

Plans also call for an addition to the Mehl plant at Providence, Ky. Other company plants are located at Williams-town, Ky. and Cincinnati.

The company is identified with the "See Safe" label for plastic packaging materials and packaging equipment. It will equip the new plant with the modern machinery for the production of polyethylene film and bags.

Combined Effort By
Locating the Mehl Co., here was a combined effort Gov. William Scranton; the state Department of Commerce; Pocono Mountains Industries, Inc., the Industrial development arm of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce; Stroud Township supervisors, and East Stroudsburg Borough officials.

Jonah Mehl, president of the plastics firm, said, "We will employ several hundred people and all employees will definitely be hired locally. We expect to start operations sometime during the summer."

Negotiations with Mehl, a subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum Co. in Bartlesville, Okla., started early in the summer when the chamber heard Mehl was considering a new plant in Pennsylvania.

Governor Interested
Alex Bensinger, chamber president, said, "The governor is very seriously interested in getting new industry into the state. He took a personal, active interest in this project."

The president of Pocono Mountains Industries, Montgomery Crowe, who pushed negotiations from the beginning said, "Our contact came from the Commerce Department and after we found a desirable site we worked closely with Department's Bureau of Industrial Development.

"Thomas J. Doolin, the bureau's plant location representative, was very helpful in ironing out all the details. It just so happened that when Mr. Mehl first came here we had just finished showing another prospect this site and we had the Erie - Lackawanna people here for talks."

"Terrific Addition"

Crowe said the addition of Mehl to the county's industrial community will be "terrific."

"They will have a payroll of at least a million dollars a year and they will bring in skilled technicians to help train our local people."

The two big problems ironed out before Mehl gave his consent to build here were:

1. Getting Stroud Township board of supervisors to accept the maintenance of Susquehanna Ave., which will be the access road to the proposed plant and to additional land that the railroad owns behind the plant site. Mehl has agreed to put the road in proper condition for acceptance by the township.

2. Receiving authorization from the borough of East Stroudsburg to accept domestic sewage from the plant for treatment in its sewage disposal plant. A 61-foot hook-up to the King St. sewer line is proposed.

"We received 100 per cent cooperation from both groups," said Crowe.

"Cooperate Fully"

Harold Albert, chairman of Stroud Township supervisors, said, "The board has agreed to accept the street when it is in the proper conditions. We want to cooperate fully in the acceptance of this street. The plant will be a valuable addition to the township's industrial community."

East Stroudsburg Mayor Thomas Kistler said, "They have furnished us with a list of materials they wish to dispose of and it is mostly domestic waste with no industrial waste."

"We have submitted this material to our engineers, Albright and Friel, and they will tell us if we can accept the added sewage."

"I foresee no difficulties, however, because we are only using 50 per cent of the designed capacity of the plant now. We want to do everything in our power to cooperate as fully as possible in bringing this plant to the area."

Competition

It has been reported that several other communities had been after the firm to locate in their areas and had even offered free land and funds for construction.

Asked why he thought the company would pay approximately $15,000 for land and agree to fix up an access road here rather than locating in another community, Crowe said,

Superhighways
"The fact of the whole matter, and this is going to be a bright spot in the future, is the network of superhighways we have here."

"They are going to make us a major distribution point. Also, the fact that the prospect for Tocks Island looks good is going to make us the recreation center of the eastern part of the United States."

In addition to Mehl, Pocono Mountains Industries, Inc., has helped in locating Oiljack Manufacturing Co., the Drakett Co. and Trumatic Machine and Tool Co., in the area.

Pocono Industries has pledged $2,500 toward the cost of demolishing the buildings on the site. Crowe said the work will cost about $4,500. Mehl will pay the difference.

HOPE TO SEE RELATIVES FOR CHRISTMAS—This scene in West Berlin was repeated many times as thousands lined up at schools to apply for permits to pass through the Red wall and see their relatives in the Soviet sector for Christmas. Agreement between East Germans and West Berlin will allow about 800,000 of West Berlin's 2.2 million residents to see their loved ones behind the wall for the first time since it was built 28 months ago. Pentagon Names Board To Study 11 Shipyards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday formation of a joint Defense Department-Navy board to make a "comprehensive study" of the capacity and needs for the 11 Navy shipyards now in operation.

The question of closing some government yards already has brought strong reaction from congressional quarters.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, in announcing last week plans to close or cut down operations of 26 military bases and installations also let it be known that he believed there was excess capacity among the government-owned yards.

He included among the 26 installations a small government yard at San Diego, but noted that this still left 11 major yards in operation.

The new announcement said that, at the direction of Mc-

Namara, Secretary of the Navy Paul Nitze established on Dec. 15 a board with membership from both the Navy Department and McNamara's office to make the new study.

The study will include, but not be limited to, such subjects as: "A. An analysis of present capacity of shipyards, both public and private, for the construction, overhaul, conversion and repair of all types of vessels."

"B. An analysis of work loads on a five-year projection of shipbuilding, repair and conversion programs."

"C. Impact of strategic and mobilization considerations on location of shipyards and major bases."

"D. An analysis of tenant (sic) activities and facilities supported by existing shipyards."

"E. An analysis of yard operating costs."

McNamara Plane In Near Crash

PARIS (AP) — "What a close call!" one of U.S. defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's aides said Wednesday. "We almost had it."

The close call was a near collision of two big American planes on fog-shrouded Orly Airport.

One was a Boeing K135 four-jet transport taking off with McNamara and his staff for Saigon, South Viet Nam, to review progress of the American-backed war against Communist guerrillas there.

The other was a Trans World Airlines Boeing 707, civilian counterpart of the K135, inbound with American servicemen's dependents from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.

Arthur G. Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense, said only the cat-quick reflexes of the U.S. Air Force pilot of the K135 averted disaster.

The pilot, Capt. Meredith Sutton, aided by copilot Albert Combs, shut off all power and hit the brakes so hard that two of the tires on the main landing gear exploded.

Civil Rights Hearing Set Ready And Willing To Meet Anytime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Howard S. Smith of the House Rules Committee announced Wednesday he will open hearings on the civil rights bill Jan. 9 — a week earlier than had been expected.

The Virginia Democrat's surprise announcement capped a number of congressional developments including:

Smith, who released the civil rights hearing date in a House speech, is believed to have bowed to pressure from Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

McCormack met with civil rights leaders Tuesday and was unable to give a firm date then. He and majority leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., met with Smith later.

The Senate approved by voice vote and sent to President Johnson congressional authorization to place the likeness of the late President John F. Kennedy on new half dollars.

The House Rules Committee approved for floor debate legislation naming the national cultural center in honor of Kennedy.

The Senate Finance Committee ordered a new study of the stock option tax privilege after disclosures of possible gains to be reaped by Chrysler Corp. executives.

Smith would not estimate when the hearings might be completed, but said, "I shall not encourage dilatory tactics." At the same time he said he hoped a majority of the committee would not try to cut off too soon the many members who want to testify.

A move to do so, however, is believed possible after one week.

In another development the House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate a $1,820,093,000 appropriation bill to finance department and the U. S. Information Agency during the current fiscal year. It is $340 million less than the administration asked.

In September, Congress sent the late President John F. Kennedy for his signature in a $231-million medical education aid measure.

Before signing the three-part bill, Johnson said this Congress has enacted more essential education legislation than any other Congress in history. This repeated his earlier statement that this is "the education Congress of 1963."

Kennedy requested the education bills which Congress had passed. Still in committee and unlikely to emerge soon is his request for federal underwriting of elementary school construction and teacher salaries.

Vocational aid grants will be allocated to the states on a formula which gives some extra help to low-income states. Matching is not required in the current fiscal year, except for construction of area vocational schools. Starting June 30, 1965, the states will have to put up dollar for dollar.

Local forecast—Partly cloudy, windy and cold with snow flurries. High 15 to 22. Sun rises 7:17 a.m.; sets 4:37 p.m.

MOSCOW (AP) — About 500 angry African students swept past police barricades into Red Square in a protest Wednesday against the death of a medical student from Ghana.

To the amazement of thousands of onlooking Russians, they scuffled with police and raced along the wall of the Kremlin right under the windows of Premier Khrushchev's office.

Whether the premier was in his office at the time was not learned. The students finally were brought up short at the main entrance of the Kremlin, at Spassky gate with the huge clock tower.

The big gate was closed against them.

A delegation later was received by the education minister, Vyacheslav Yelutin. They told him the dead student, Asare Addo, 29, was stabbed to death by a Russian last Friday. The delegates said they were told by Yelutin that Addo rose to death but they didn't believe this.

It was the first known public demonstration of foreign students directed against the Russians.

The Russians probably were also startled to hear one of the demonstrators shout: "Moscow is a second Alabama!"

Most of the students were from Ghana, which has 700 studying in the Soviet Union. But they were joined by other students from African nations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson opened the door Wednesday to a meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev or any other world leader—"at any time there is any indication a meeting would be fruitful and productive."

Standing behind his White House desk, Johnson declared "I am ready and willing to meet with any of the world leaders" when there are such prospects.

"When there are such indications, I will be glad to make a decision and inform you of it," the President told a surprise news conference after a reporter asked his views "toward perhaps an early meeting" with the Soviet leader.

With perhaps 50 reporters winding up in front of his desk, Johnson spent half an hour talking about his budget, his hopes for progress at home, and his plans in international affairs.

No. 1 Obligation
Winding up the second of his Johnson-style news conferences, the President declared "the No. 1 obligation of the President of this country and every citizen of every country is to learn how to live together."

Johnson, who talks Dec. 28 and 29 with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, said he expects to meet early next year with the president of Italy, the prime minister of Canada, the president of Mexico "and with any other leaders where it is indicated a conference would be mutually desirable."

And he added that his Tuesday address to the United Nations was "a meeting with world leaders from 113 countries."

He called that "a very productive meeting."

"My No. 1 priority, my No. 1 goal, my No. 1 objective, my No. 1 ambition, is to try to provide the leadership for my country with vision, tolerance, patience and strength that will convince the rest of the world that we court no territory, we seek no satellites, that we are trying to live in peace and prosperity, and we would like for our fellow man everywhere to do the same thing," Johnson said.

Johnson linked his aims at home with his hope for the world.

Growing Nation
"We are a growing nation, and we expect to keep moving if we are to lead our own people, as well as lead the world," he said.

Johnson said he does not know what figure he will propose in the budget he sends Congress next month.

But he promised: "We are going to cut out every dime of waste that we can in order to have as much to spend on the unfilled needs of this nation."

"There will be new programs," Johnson said. "We are going to stand still in this country; we are going to be forward looking."

Johnson said he hopes the private sector of the economy "can make substantial contribution after the tax bill is passed in relieving our unemployment problem and increasing the number of jobs."

"But we do expect to have programs that will deal with new situations and we do expect never to just be content to sit in our rocking chair and enjoy the status quo," the President said.

Johnson said the government will spend about $99 billion during the current fiscal year, and in drafting his new budget he faces $3.5 billion in built-in increases due to pay raises, new programs and other outlays that already have been determined.

"No one knows what the budget will be now, because we are trying the case, so to speak," Johnson said.

Agencies Can Appeal
The President said agencies that want more money still have the right to appeal to him—and the Joint Chiefs of Staff will do just that Dec. 30 at the President's ranch in Johnson City, Tex.

Johnson said at that time "we will try to finalize the budget for the Department of Defense."

The chief executive announced he is appointing Thomas Mann a special assistant as well as assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

The State Department nomination was announced Saturday. Johnson said he decided upon the extraordinary dual assignment because "we expect to speak with one voice on all matters affecting this hemisphere."

"Mr. Mann, with the support of the secretary of state and the President, will be that voice," Johnson declared.

Good Morning!

Politicians are the same the world over. They promise to build a bridge, even where there is no river.

People In The Spotlight

Two-year-old Vicki Wray's parents were given new hope this week that she may be able to see her toys on Christmas morning.

Vicki was brought to Duke University from her home in Bowling Green, S. C., for studies which will determine how successful doctors have been in efforts to combat cancer in her one remaining eye.

The child is afflicted with retinal glioma, a form of cancer of the eye that can spread to other parts of the body. Last July, Duke surgeons removed Vicki's right eye and since then have been using radiation and chemical treatment in hopes of preserving vision and controlling the malignancy in the left eye.

Her mother, Mrs. Doris Wray, said doctors told her removal of Vicki's remaining eye would prolong her life, but that eventually Vicki would succumb to the malignancy.

The mother said she and her husband were told the child had, at most, only four to six years to live.

Ernest L. Rylstone, of Greensburg, Pa., who gained fame by writing the Lord's Prayer on a grain of rice, died Tuesday at the age of 76.

A retired employee of Westinghouse Electric Corp., he was featured in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" in 1934. Known as "Bly," the Rice Writer, he appeared at various expositions including the New York World's Fair in 1939.

John William Irwin, one of three men arrested on suspicion of kidnaping Frank Sinatra, Jr., was turned over to the FBI by his brother, the brother said this week.

James Irwin, 41, told newsmen from his home at Imperial Beach, Calif., that his brother knew he was going to be turned in and did not object.

John Irwin, 42, was arrested last Friday in front of James' home, near San Diego. He was the first of the three to be taken into custody.

James Irwin gave a newsmen this account:

"My brother came to my home in Imperial Beach and said he was sick and tired of his involvement in this situation. He knew that no matter where the FBI was on the case at the time, it was just a matter of time before he would be caught."

"We talked it over and he felt that possibly some people could get hurt, perhaps in some escape attempt. He wanted to talk it over with a member of the family so he came down here to see me. He wanted to know the best way to terminate this problem and we both decided that there was only one way and that was to contact the FBI."

Child Headed For Blindness

BOWLING GREEN, S.C. (AP) Two-year-old Vicki Wray took a last look at the family Christmas tree yesterday, then was carried to the family car and driven to Durham, N.C., for an operation that will leave her blind.

The child's mother, Mrs. Doris Wray, 32, said before they left home, "I'm just praying. Nothing will bring my baby's sight back. I just pray and pray. This will be a dark Christmas for Vicki, but at least she will be alive."

York Republican Gets Roads Post

HARRISBURG (AP)—The appointment of Theodore F. Freed, York County Republican chairman, to the $17,839 post of deputy secretary of highways was announced Wednesday by Gov. Scranton.

The announcement said Freed would resign his political chairmanship when he takes over the appointive office after the first of the year.

Freed was named to succeed Lester Burlein, Honesdale, who was appointed by Scranton to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission earlier this year. Freed has been county chairman of York since 1956. He also is a former city councilman.

Hugh Scott In Korea

WITH THE 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea (AP)—U. S. Sen. Hugh Scott wrapped in a heavy Army parka, Wednesday visited American soldiers guarding the armistice line with Communist North Korea.

He was accompanied by four congressmen: Reps. William G. Bray, R-Ind.; Frank G. Osmerf, R-N.J.; Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., and John D. Murphy, D-N.Y.

Scott removed a bomburg to peer through an artillery range-finder at North Korean positions on the opposite side of the armistice line.

The fruit-and-vegetable plant industry has 172,400 employees in the United States and a payroll of $391 million a year.

Train Smashes Backing Truck

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A truck driver escaped with minor injuries Wednesday as a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train knocked his vehicle off the Haysville Crossing near suburban Sewickley.

Charles Babjeck, 31, of Robinson Twp. was treated for head and wrist cuts at Sewickley Valley Hospital and released.

A railroad spokesman said no one aboard the Chicago-to-Pittsburgh train was injured. It was delayed about 20 minutes.

Police said the tractor-trailer was going across the tracks, stopped and began backing up when the accident occurred.

Two Brothers Die In Fire

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A house fire in Pittsburgh killed two young brothers Wednesday.

They were David Davis, 20 months, and his 8-month-old brother, Abraham. They suffered extensive burns.

Firemen found the bodies on the top floor of the three-story brick structure in Pittsburgh's Hill District.

Fire officials said the believed the blaze was touched off by a high flame from an unvented space heater on the top floor. They estimated damage at $15,000.

Police and firemen battling the two-alarm blaze were at first hampered by icy streets in the snowy, sub-freezing weather.

Welcome To Stroudsburg

The announcement in this morning's Daily Record that the Mehl Manufacturing Co. will build a $500,000 plant employing 200 people at the old Erie-Lackawanna roundhouse near Stokes Mill is welcome news for the Pocono Mountains.

It is particularly good for the area to have an employer willing to hire local workers and train them here.

It is a needed shot in the arm for the Pocono Mountains economy to have a new firm with a $1,000,000 or more annual payroll which will be spent by employees in this area.

Mehl Manufacturing Co. is also expanding in other directions—at Providence, Kentucky and Perris, California. It is a growing firm in a modern and growing plastics industry—facts which indicate that it will be a successful and permanent neighbor.

It is a subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum, Inc., one of the largest corporations in America.

The effort to bring Mehl to Stroudsburg was made principally by Montgomery F. Crowe, president of Pocono Mountains Industries, Inc.; Alex Bensing, president of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce; the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, Bureau of Industrial Development; and Gov. William Scranton, who is reported to have taken "an active, personal interest" in bringing Mehl Manufacturing Co. to Pennsylvania.

It is direct evidence of the governor's active effort to bring new industry to Pennsylvania. And it is another proof of the value and success of Pocono Mountains Industries, Inc., in bringing more jobs and a healthier, year-round economy to the Poconos.

We should not overlook the silent partner in this new plant location decision.

It is Interstate Rt. 80. The officials of Mehl Manufacturing Co. made it clear that proximity to Rt. 80 and the major east-west, south-north superhighways which meet in Monroe County was a major factor in their decision to build a plant here.

This is not the first major investment made in the Pocono Mountains for that reason, and it will not be the last.

The Wheat Deal

We supported the sale of surplus wheat to Communist Russia when the late President Kennedy first approved the deal.

Originally it was to be a hard cash and private enterprise transaction between Russia, and other Communist countries, and private wheat dealers in the United States.

If any credits were needed, they were to be given by private banks in the United States willing to take the risk of default on payments by the Communist nations.

We supported this arrangement as a clear victory of private enterprise in farming and finance over the state-controlled agricultural failure in Russia and her satellites.

It was dramatic proof to the world that capitalism has outdone communism in its own supposed "specialty"—growing more food faster to feed hungry masses in underdeveloped countries.

But that original deal has been distorted considerably.

The Russians have balked at paying shipping prices charged by American carriers which are higher than other world shipping prices. And they no longer talk of cash payments in gold, but of long term loans.

During negotiations, in which the United States government has taken a major hand, we have given the Russians a number of concessions.

Now there is a fight raging in Congress over whether the American Export-Import Bank should be forbidden to guarantee private bank loans for wheat sales to Communist nations.

The proposal for the Export-Import Bank to pay Communist debts to American banks if the Communists default on their payments was one of the concessions we have made.

The Congressional reaction was properly negative. Why should the government guarantee a private enterprise deal like this? Why should American taxpayers commit money to help the Communists pay their bills?

We don't think a good answer has been given. We don't think there is one.

The House voted to ban such a government guarantee. The Senate has cut out that ban. We hope it will be restored in the House-Senate conference on the foreign aid bill which originally contained this restriction.

Problems Of Succession

By Walter Lippmann

Congress has a duty laid upon it by the Constitution to deal with the situation in which we find ourselves; we are without a qualified man next in the line of succession to the President. I mean no attack on Speaker McCormack, who is, like the rest of us, the accidental and unexpected victim of the confused legislation of 1947.

There are some who profess to be reassured by the fact that the speaker of the House is an elected official. But have they considered the situation which the act of 1947 has created in the case of the illness of a President?

How could the speaker "act" as President without resigning his seat and the speakership? And then, if the President recovered, as did President Eisenhower, what would happen to the speaker who had lost his seat?

It is quite clear, it seems to me, that the problem of a disabled President—when there is no Vice President—is insoluble without a workable solution of the problem of the succession. For the officer who acts in time of the President's "inability"—this is the word of the Constitution—has to be the same man who would succeed the President if the President died.

Assuming, then, that the line of succession is to be straightened out, the first point on which to fix our minds is that no constitutional amendment is needed. Since none is needed, it should be avoided as likely to introduce into our system another rigidity. The text of the Constitution is perfectly clear in imposing on Congress the right, the power and therefore the duty of dealing with the organically-related problems of the succession and of inability.

Article II, Section 1, Clause 5 of the Constitution says that "... the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed or a President shall be elected."

Within a period of some 80 years, there have been three Presidents who became incapacitated for a considerable time. Garfield lingered along quite helplessly for 11 weeks until he died. Wilson made only a partial recovery. And Eisenhower was an invalid for several months. Yet in no case was the Vice President, who was next in line, called upon to act. The issue of calling upon him was avoided by a benevolent conspiracy of the President's doctors, his family and his Cabinet to carry on in his name and in his place.

Few people today would, I think, regard it as safe in this dangerous world to let the awful powers of the Presidency be exercised by an anonymous and self-appointed committee.

The history of the three Presidential illnesses shows that there have been two prime questions which caused the circle around the President to avoid summoning an acting President. One is: who shall have the power to determine that the President is unable to exercise the functions of his office? The second is: how can a President, if he has recovered from his illness, regain the powers of the Presidency?

The answer to the first question is in the clause of the Constitution which I have quoted above. If Congress has the power of "declaring what officer shall... act as President," it must have the power to determine whether the existing President is able to discharge his powers and duties. The question of the President's inability is, to be sure, a medical question which Congress is not immediately qualified to answer. What Congress is competent to do is to make a judgment on the credibility of the evidence of the President's doctors.

The logical and orderly way to do this is for Congress to appoint a disability commission consisting of high officials and of some physicians who are not involved in the President's case. This commission should examine judicially the evidence of the President's doctors, and it should report to Congress the true state of the President's health and the prospects of his speedy recovery. On the basis of this report, the Congress should decide whether the next in the line of the succession should be given a mandate to act.

The second question, which is how the President, if he recovers, can regain his powers, can be dealt with by the re-covered President himself. He can notify the Congress that he is ready to resume his powers. If there is no obvious and glaring reason why he should not, the President's own word should be final.

The Pennsylvania Story

The 'Honeymoon' Year

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — As Governor Scranton heads into the windup of his first year in office, the question might well be asked as to how well he has fared during this "honeymoon" year.

In looking at the overall picture it must be said that he has done fairly well — particularly insofar as his own gubernatorial hide is concerned, and in general insofar as his administration is concerned.

Few — even Democratic partisans — will dispute the fact that one way or another he has managed to handle his affairs of office with some what unusual dispatch somewhat enviable finesse.

He has yet to become embroiled in the usual public hassle and wrangle over an administration misstep (a somewhat irritating and chafing situation to Democratic oppositionists).

His "public image" throughout his first twelve months has remained remarkably intact, and while it may have deteriorated in some respects, it seemingly has shown slight improvement in the general, overall spectrum.

Throughout his first year he has continued to maintain that irking (to the opposition) Scranton aplomb through thick and thin almost regardless of the crisis, regardless of the circumstance.

He has yet to go before the legislative branch for any table-thumping, desk pounding or inkwell rattling. He has yet to raise his voice above his wife's in public on any issue.

In the beginning, or rather shortly before he actually assumed office, he threw together the fundamentals of what would be his administration program — and has not only stuck with it but has enjoyed a marked success in getting it launched and under way.

With the legislative branch, while in his own hands was held by only a fingernail, or two, he has managed to work through most of his ideals and philosophies with somewhat remarkable aplomb and dispatch, without particularly alienating even Democratic stalwarts.

One of his toughest tests of the year unquestionably revolved around the question of what should be done about the $72 million in non-preferred state aid appropriations for hospitals, colleges, universities and other state aided facilities which went down to defeat twice during the regular 1963 session when anti-administration Democrats refused to provide the needed two-thirds vote his party numerically did not have.

In the final showdown (which wound up last week) he threw down the gauntlet without becoming hysterical and simply convened the legislature in special session for the specific purposes of solving the problem — thus leaving anti-administration forces with no alternative than to go along.

This is precisely what happened. The non-preferreds have now been cleared — with the necessary opposition help!

On the political front there have been — and are — uprisings within his own GOP party, which is par for the course, but by and large the uprisings have not (as yet at least) become major public issues complete with hand and neck wringings.

In the Scranton arena, matters political seem to have a way of taking care of themselves — which while somewhat of an over-statement, helps drive home the point.

There was for example the Goldwater — for — president boomlet a few months ago that threatened to upset his preferred appellation of sending the Pennsylvania GOP delegation to the presidential nominating convention unpledged (except to himself as a routine "favorite son" candidate to hold the delegation together as a unit) — but even this threat, with time and circumstance in his favor, has been petering out!

Ex-GOP Chieftains Meet

Two powerful politicians of any day or age got together the other day for an outing in the woods of the Pocono Mountains.

It was like old home week when Ken Kressler, former county chairman of the Republican Party of Northampton County, and Ben K. Williams, ex-generalissimo of the GOP in Monroe, met.

The occasion was a hunting session near Williams' picturesque home at Devil's Hole not far from Henryville.

For a reporter it was a bust. Neither Ken nor Ben talked politics. They were in the mountains to inhale some of the Poconos' good air and spy a few deer.

But the get-together brought back memories to this corner.

We remember Kressler when he was the titan of political warfare in Northampton. Based in Easton, Ken threw his well-planned attack around the county and came up with plenty of victories in an area that was decidedly Democratic.

Two men who could say that was Kressler who put them into office were Judge Laub and Judge Frack. Ken worked 26 hours a day to get the jurists elected.

His political maneuvering in Democratic — dedicated Bethlehem is still the talk of veteran politicians on both sides of the fence.

For the record, the GOP hasn't made a favorable indent in the Steel City stronghold of the Democrats since.

Quiet, unassuming Williams had a lot to do with the inroads of the Republicans in Monroe today. Unfortunately the party has not enjoyed the harmony it once held under Ben's guiding hands.

How ever, any GOP member will point out that they are not doing too bad despite the open bickering among party powers.

Williams was the man behind the gun who spearheaded Judge Fred W. Davis into office in 1947. Ben knew he had a standard bearer in Monroe's president-judge.

But it took quite a bit of political savvy to swing the election in favor of Davis when you consider the heavy Democratic voter registration edge in the county.

Ben's reign as head of Monroe's GOP was hectic. But he enjoyed every minute of it. Today he looks back at successes that otherwise might have been failures if he hadn't taken the bull by the horns.

The recent holiday of the two area political geniuses didn't offer anything new to the Northampton and Monroe scene.

But it reminded more than a few of Republican victories that might not have been gained if two fellows by the name of Ken and Ben hadn't been around showing colleagues how it's done.

The Allen-Scott Report

Election Dilemma

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — Senator Margaret Chase Smith has just about concluded to stay out of New Hampshire's Republican presidential primary.

Reserving, of course, woman's traditional privilege, the charming and astute Maine legislator may change her mind. But barring a last-minute reversal, she is leaving the potentially highly important March 10 test to other aspirants.

A primary factor in this decision is growing backstage indications that Senator Barry Goldwater may pull out of the presidential fray.

That eventually immeasurably changes the New Hampshire picture.

In a three-cornered race, involving Governor Rockefeller and Goldwater, Mrs. Smith, offering a middle-of-the-road alternative, figured to have a good chance to win. But with Goldwater out, the situation would be radically different.

Mrs. Smith would be faced with a straight-out fight against Rockefeller with distinctly uncertain prospects.

The New Yorker already is busily and extensively organizing in the New England battleground. Taking advantage of the political moratorium during the mourning period for President Kennedy, Rockefeller's partisans are swarming over New Hampshire preparing for an all-out drive starting early next year.

The inside word is that he will wage a "saturation" campaign, and all signs point to that. There appears to be no lack of personnel or money.

Indications of Senator Goldwater's apparent withdrawal thinking are growing.

Close colleagues of National Chairman William Miller are quoting him as increasingly convinced the Arizona will abandon the 1964 nomination scramble. The same kind of private talk is coming from Senator Thruston Morton, Ky., Miller's predecessor and now chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee.

An avowed vice presidential aspirant, Morton has been leaning strongly toward Goldwater. Now he is telling friends he doubts Goldwater will run.

Senator Norris Cotton, N.H., Goldwater leader in that state, is credited as being greatly worried about this possibility. Some weeks ago, because of the stepped-up Rockefeller operations, Cotton urged Goldwater to declare without further delay. Cotton warned that silence was playing into Rockefeller's hands, as local leaders were committing themselves.

Goldwater has disregarded this importunate counsel.

Teen-Ager's Choice — Those handsome young Secret Service men guarding Lucy Baines Johnson, 16-year-old daughter of the President, are no accident.

The vivacious teen-ager picked them herself.

That's what her delighted classmate at National Cathedral School for Girls are gaily relating. As they tell it, when Lucy was notified that three Secret Servicemen would be assigned to protect her when she was outside White House confines, she pertly asked that a group be sent over so she could select those she wanted.

"She picked the best-looking," her classmates beamingly report, "and they certainly are dashing."

Secret Service Chief James Rowley has no comment on this account.

Strange Bedfellows — Presidential Johnson's old congressional pals not only are busily cleaning up the long-stalled legislative calendar for him, but they are also providing a payroll roost for four members of his staff.

They are Walter Jenkins, long-time administrative assistant; George Reedy, press aide; Clifford Carter and Jack Valenti, Texans summoned by Johnson to help him.

Although working in the White House directly for the new President, the quartet is on the payrolls of the Senate and House Appropriations Committees — at the maximum salary allowed for their staffs of $18,500.

That's somewhat less than the White House pay scale or their jobs.

This unusual backstage arrangement is due to Johnson's retention of the late President Kennedy's staff. As White House funds are budgeted on a quarterly basis, money was not available to pay the four new Johnson assistants. To find a way out of this dilemma, Johnson appealed to his old congressional friends who came up with the answer.

They cited President Truman's stratagem in a similar situation. He temporarily put his staff on the payrolls of congressional committees. So Johnson is doing the same until the new year.

Johnson Changes — Soundings are being taken by Presidential Johnson on moving the time and place of the Democratic national convention scheduled for the last week in August in Atlantic City. So far the reaction of party leaders is mixed. Representative Neil Stabler, Mich., national committeeman, favors shifting the convention to Detroit in the first week of August. Other Democratic chiefs see no reason to change. The question will be discussed at a national committee meeting early next year.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Quack Marriage Counseling

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Marriages tottering on the brink of destruction deserve the direction and support of well-trained physicians, guidance counselors, religious advisors, and psychologists.

The preservation of the marriage is frequently dependent on the specific advice offered at this lowest ebb in the marital relationship.

Too often, glib, unhappy couples, spurred by the drive to keep their families intact, fall into the hands of exploiting quacks.

These psychologically ill-equipped, intellectually mediocre, inadequately trained, or completely untrained counselors thrive parasitically on the debris scattered in the ashes of a dissolving marriage.

Need Skilled Help

A marriage rocked by physical, emotional and economic turbulence can base its salvation only on the help of exceedingly proficient trained counselors.

In large cities all over the United States, stories of financial exploitation in this field are constantly reported to police authorities.

But the greatest exploitation is not the financial one. The time that is wasted by the charlatans, the self-appointed marriage counselors, plays havoc with the possibilities of reestablishing a happy marriage pattern.

When a marriage problem threatens to disrupt the family entity, an objective, unbiased opinion must be sought.

Excellent Advisor

An excellent source of important dependable advice is the family physician. He is in an ideal position to uncover the physical and emotional complexities of a strained relationship. His awareness of the psychological pressures that produce friction and conflict can be helpful in finding qualified, accredited family counselors.

The religious advisor is another fine source of responsible and constructive advice.

The real function of the marriage counselor is to place in proper perspective the major underlying problems that are causing disturbance in a marriage. Very often, when insignificant problems are magnified out of proportion, they tend to overshadow and confuse the real and basic issues.

Marriages can become bogged down by trivial annoyances. Frequently, the counselor can cut through the maze of disagreement and dissent, and bring to light the good, positive elements that make that marriage worth saving.

But the destiny of a marriage must not be allowed to depend on the greed of those who profit from the despair of others.

Marriages Can Be Saved

With proper guidance and psychological support, many marriages that now end in divorce can be reconstructed, sustained and made fruitful.

The delicacy of such guidance demands rigid standards of education, supervision, and accreditation of counselors.

Legislation programs must be instituted to maintain these standards.

The unwary must be protected from the glib and exploitation of verbal quacks who flourish now without restriction.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

TILTING WITH WINDMILLS

"Tilting with windmills" refers to a ludicrous incident in "Don Quixote," one of the most popular novels of all time.

Don Quixote, the chief character, went mad from reading so many books on chivalry and imagined he was a knight. He set out with his squire, Sancho Panza, to right the wrongs of the world.

In one of his many ridiculous adventures, he mistook a windmill for a giant and charged it. His lance caught in one of the moving sails, and he and his horse were lifted into the air and then dumped to the ground.

The fictional incident gave us the phrase, "tilting with windmills," meaning to fight imaginary foes or evils.

Extra-Curricular Activities Out For Stroud Union Married Students

STROUDSBURG — The majority of the Stroud Union school directors over the vigorous protest of Dr. John P. Lim voted last night to deny any married student the right to participate in activity where public performance is involved.

The board meeting in the high school, voted six to one in favor of the resolution. Approving the measure were Robert Hellman, John Baymor, Ruth Hauser, Mrs. Lorraine Viglione, Raymond Price Jr. and Ray Roberts. Dr. Lim was the lone dissenter.

The resolution made by Baymor and seconded by Mrs. Hauser read:

"That married students attending high school be permitted to earn credits for graduation, but that they be denied the privilege of participating in activities in which there is any public performance involved or in which the students act in the name of the school."

In support of his motion, Baymor said, "If we allow any married student to play any sport we are accepting this condition. He is no longer a student but a parent. If we allow this we are more or less saying it is alright."

Baymor was apparently referring to Fred Frantz, a Stroud Union senior, who was first-string quarterback on this year's high school football team. Frantz is married.

In opposing the motion, Dr. Lim said:

"I do not approve of the implied condemnation, punishment and stigma this motion is attaching to marriage. Otherwise, why should there be a penalty by the denial of participation ordinarily available to the rest."

"What is wrong with marriage and what rules or regulations were broken that certain opportunities and privileges will be denied?"

Lim continued, "I am in agreement with the motive behind this motion but I am not in accord with the motion as it is presented. Because after consultation with individuals whose opinion I respect, I cannot see where this regulation will solve anything."

"Just As Important"

"It will, however, work a hardship on those who have the courage to accept the marriage vows. In modern education some of these extra-curricular activities are just as important as classroom activities."

All other directors spoke in favor of the resolution.

Roberts said, "I have had some calls relating to married students in athletics. I would be concerned if my youngster was in close contact with a married student."

Mrs. Viglione said, "One of the goals of education is to train students to become responsible people. Are you (the board) yourself not bound by laws everyday and a certain standard of behavior?"

"I feel that if students in our school know that marriage is a responsible thing they will be less inclined to get married. I don't believe in high school marriages whether they are necessary or not," Mrs. Viglione concluded.

Convention Scheduled

In other business Baymor, who is Stroud Union's representative on the Monroe County School Board, told directors a county school board convention will be held Jan. 6 in the Monroe's courthouse, Stroudsburg.

"The county school board didn't live up to the requirements of the state concerning school reorganization. It was required to hold this type meeting with all county directors before the board adopted any plan for reorganization."

During a discussion of the re-scheduled four-district plan of reorganization, Hellman said, "We should take a broad view of this thing and be concerned with the welfare of the whole county."

"It may be the best thing for Pleasant Valley to come into Stroud Union and leave Eldred go with Palmerton." He was referring to the fact that the Eldred Township School Board requested and received permission from Palmerton to enter its school district.

Seeks More Time

Roberts said, "As a new school director, I am asking for more time to study the proposals after the county meeting."

In other action the board:

Approved a treasurer's report showing a bank balance of $85,917.51. Treasurer Baymor said, "We are in good financial shape."

Accepts Cafeteria Report

Accepted a cafeteria report showing a bank balance of $1,009.38. Baymor noted that the cafeteria fund is not in a very favorable position. "We are paying last month's bills with this month's receipts," he said.

Approved a request from Mrs. Talitha Bush for a $25 a month driving allowance, retroactive to last October. Mrs. Bush transports handicapped children from the district to a school in East Stroudsburg.

Approved placing the names of three persons on the districts substitute teaching list. Approved were Mrs. Virginia Newman, English and social studies; Edward Regina, biology, science and geography; and Mrs. Norma Hauserman, elementary.

Approved requests for home-bound instruction from Rosemary Staples, Michael LaBar and Kathleen Kirchhafer.

Granted permission to the DeMolay to use the high school rifle range, provided they file a certificate of insurance with the school and observe all other school regulations.

We should all be prepared when the time comes — make your selection of a suitable Memorial now.

CD Well 'Digs' Past Estimate

STROUDSBURG — A well being drilled beside Monroe County Courthouse to provide emergency water supplies for the county's Civil Defense operations center may cost more than the $3,824 previously estimated, it was announced yesterday.

Harold Rinker of the Stroudsburg architectural firm of Rinker, Keifer and Rake, said the cost is already more than estimated and will go higher. He declined to give specific figures.

County commissioners and CD officials are expected to learn today if the well will produce enough water for the center.

Tillman Hawk of Cresco said yesterday the well is now 230 feet deep and water has been struck. He said his firm will run an eight-hour pumping test today to determine gallonage per minute flow, weather permitting.

Hawk said he started drilling about six weeks ago and struck solid rock at the 150-foot mark. A rotary drill, operated by compressed air, continued the drilling.

No Injuries In 2-Car Accident

STROUDSBURG—No one was injured in a two-car accident on Route 611, two miles north of Stroudsburg at 10:10 a. m. yesterday.

State Police at Stroudsburg said a car driven by Phyllis W. Carlton, of 112 Broad St., Stroudsburg, was leaving a driveway at the State Highways Dept. building when it entered the path of a car driven by Evelyn Saxon, of Mountainhome.

The annual payroll of the dairy industry in the United States is $1.3 billion.

Judge Davis Dismisses Trespass Action Motion

STROUDSBURG—Judge Fred W. Davis yesterday dismissed a motion for judgment which would have removed Joseph Michael Burke as an additional defendant in a trespass action resulting from an automobile accident in 1961.

Burke was identified as the driver of a car owned by John Rade, Sr., in which Rade, his wife, Jean, and their children, John, Jr., and Jean Marie, were riding when it collided with a car driven by Harry Sieling of Philadelphia, on Route 611 at its intersection with Route 490 on Aug. 11, 1961.

The suit was brought by Rade and his wife individually and by the husband as guardian of the two minor children. Sieling was named defendant with Burke as additional defendant. Burke's counsel filed a motion for judgment on the ground that Sieling was precluded by terms of the release he signed from joining Burke as an additional defendant in the action.

Sieling's attorneys contended that the terms of the release applied only to damage and injuries sustained by Sieling and his wife and did not extend to the Rades.

Judge Davis ruled, in part: "By the instrument in the instant case, defendant released additional defendant only from aggressive actions which he and his wife had or might have; he did not relinquish the purely defensive right, in an action for damages instituted by other persons, to require the additional defendant to respond to the plaintiffs on a charge of sole liability. Figuratively speaking, defendant, by executing the release, surrendered his sword and lance, but retained his buckler."

Driver Unhurt As Rig Hits Deer, Bank

McILHANEY — A tractor-trailer was damaged to the extent of $1,000 but the driver escaped injury when it left the highway and hit an embankment a quarter mile east of McIlhaney at 6 a. m. yesterday after it struck and killed a deer.

Allan F. Dreisbach, 35, of Mifflinville, told State Police at Fern Ridge he was traveling west on Route 209 when the deer crossed in front of him from the north side of the highway.

The rig, owned by the Wise Potato Chip Co. of Berwick, went out of control on the snow-covered road and hit an embankment on the south side.

The United States baking industry employs 299,000 persons with a yearly payroll of $1.3 billion.

French Students Overload Schools

By RODNEY ANGOVE

PARIS (AP)—A record surge of students, amid the demands of the space age, is crashing over the French educational system like a tidal wave.

Lecture halls are packed to the window sills and thousands of students are turned away. Many cannot register for courses required for degrees. In protest, they take to the streets, booing the government and trading stones for swats of lead-lined police capes.

The flood of numbers is only part of the problem. Professors worry about old-fashioned courses and methods which they say cheat smart, hard-working youth out of an understanding of their times.

The government says it is doing everything it can to push through the most sweeping educational revision since the 17th century. But the tidal wave has yet to reach its peak.

High In Reputation

French education is accustomed to a high reputation. In the 17th century it was supreme in turning out well-rounded gentlemen who could discuss abstract ideas in elegant French or foreign languages. It remained that way for over 200 years.

French lycées — high school and junior college combinations — still pile on the homework and enjoy high reput on the secondary education level. Though graduates complete only 12 years, they are usually admitted as juniors in American colleges. Teachers now wonder how much longer they will be able to maintain the standard.

From 1958, when President Charles de Gaulle returned to power, to the budget for 1964, school spending has increased three-fold to 2.74 billion. It has risen from 10 to 16 per cent of the national budget.

But the country is so far behind it is doubtful any program could meet the crest of the student wave in the next two years.

Do-Nothing Attitude

A great deal of the blame lies with the do-nothing attitude of the revolving-door governments between De Gaulle's stepdown in 1946 and his return in 1958. They knew the increase in births from the 1940-42 average of 550,000 per year to 630,000 in 1943-45 would crowd the primary schools.

This year the first of the wave hit the universities—an increase of 25,000 to a total of 300,000—with the 1946 baby crop expected in a couple of years.

Students are afraid the solution will be an extension of the sieve system that strains out the less-good students at every level, allowing only the brightest to go higher to a fixed number of admissions in the better schools. They fear, too, that business and technical education—needed for many jobs—will be left to the schools organized by industry, where tuition is high.

Officials find solutions hard. Teachers cannot be bought like buildings. Teacher material comes from the years of low birthrates, and the ranks have been picked clean.

UN Unit Votes Larger Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations' special political committee voted overwhelmingly yesterday to enlarge the security and economic and social councils to give more representation to newly independent African and Asian countries.

But France and the Soviet Union voted "no" while Britain and the United States abstained, indicating that the whole plan may still be frustrated. Failure of any of these countries to ratify the move would kill it.

Stalled Yule Buying Perking Up

By JACK LEFFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—A national tragedy and unusually warm weather held Christmas buying to a slow start. But most merchants are confident that a late surge will carry them to a record.

The assassination Nov. 22 of President John F. Kennedy disrupted plans of retailers to get the Christmas shopping season off to an early opening. They were trying to make up in advance for the five fewer shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas this year than last year.

A warm autumn also put a damper on early shopping inspiration. "Extremely Good"

However, the National Retail

Merchants Association reported business was "extremely good" last week and predicted a 4 per cent increase nationally over the record 1962 season.

In New York City, David L. Yonich, president of the big Macy's department store chain, said "the underlying tone of business is excellent."

Business has been very satisfying ever since the day after Thanksgiving, said Bruce A. Gimbel, president of Gimbel's, another major chain.

Some other merchants, however, are not optimistic.

"Business took a terrible setback on the assassination of President Kennedy," said Cyril Magnin Co., San Francisco department store chain.

"It was slow starting this season but is coming along pretty well now. We had planned on about a 5 per cent increase over last year. We feel now that estimate as gone down the drain and if we get a 1 to 2 per cent gain we'll be lucky."

In Washington, where the shock of Kennedy's death was perhaps the greatest, a spokesman for Hecht Co., operator of four department stores, said:

"The death of President Kennedy had quite an impact on our business. Sales of November were down from last year although there was an increase, compared with last year, in the first few days of December. We don't believe that total business for the season will be as high as last year."

Merchants around the country reached in an Associated Press survey found that customers apparently have plenty of money and are spending it, concentrating more than ever on quality goods.

LBJ Popular

NEW YORK (AP) — News-week magazine says its latest poll reports a big jump in popularity for President Johnson in the past two weeks.

Johnson rose 7 points to a nationwide lead of 64-36 over the combined average of the five leading Republican contenders, the magazine said in an issue to be released Tuesday. That's a bigger margin than former President Kennedy ever held.

Officials find solutions hard. Teachers cannot be bought like buildings. Teacher material comes from the years of low birthrates, and the ranks have been picked clean.

Library To Receive $8,607

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Public Library will receive $8,607 in state aid this month, it was announced this week by Gov. William W. Scranton.

Of this, $8,000 will be state aid on the basis of the local institution being a county library. The remaining $607 is based on 10 cents per person for the 6,070 people living in the borough.

The per capita allocation was raised to 10 cents this year from 5.9 cents paid a year ago. Payments are made under provisions of the 1961 Library Code which permits allocations of up to 25 cents per capita to libraries which qualify.

Pike To Be Aided
 Pike County Library will receive a total of $1,620, of which $1,500 is for the county library and $120 is per capita payment based on a population in Milford of 1,198.

The Wayne County Library will receive $1,057, of which $900 is for the county library, $143 is per capita based on Hawley's population of 1,433 and $14 is equalization aid, paid to communities less able to afford minimum standard library service from local funds.

Amputation Draws Man From Boy

DANVILLE, Pa. (AP)—He's only 11 but Barry Gray has accepted the fact of losing a leg with the stoicism of a battle-hardened veteran.

"When we finally told him, he seemed to take it a whole lot better than we did," said father Clyde Gray Jr.

The Grays live in West Hemlock Township and the father works at a Danville plant. The crisis developed when Barry was stricken with bone cancer. Surgeons at Geisinger Medical Center said the right leg would have to be amputated to check its spread.

Barry, a dimple-checked sixth grader, underwent the surgery after three previous attempts to arrest the tumor had failed.

An account of Barry's troubles published in the Danville News opened the floodgates of human kindness. Neighbors, friends, and folks the Gray family didn't even know started a drive. When his doctors declare him ready, Barry will have an artificial limb.

At the Danville plant where Clyde Gray works they started raising a gift for Barry for attaching coils to a 100-foot length of plastic adhesive. It grew into $300.

"We can't believe something so fine could happen to us or one of our children," said Gray. "Why should people want to do this for us?"

Mr. and Mrs. Gray have two other sons, Tom and Steve. Barry is scheduled to leave the hospital this week and will be home — but immobilized — for Christmas.

Medical authorities said it would be about three months before he is ready for fitting with an artificial limb.

New Highs For Weekly Earnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both hourly and weekly earnings of factory workers climbed to record levels in November, the Labor Department reported.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said average hourly earnings of factory production workers increased by 2 cents to $2.49, from October to November. This was 8 cents above November 1962.

As a result of the hourly increase, the bureau said weekly earnings also rose to a new peak at $101.09. This was 56 cents above October and $3.73 over the same month a year ago.

The bureau reported the number of workers on nonfarm payrolls dropped by 100,000 during the month to 58.3 million. This still was 1.5 million higher than November 1962.

The largest job reductions during November were in construction and in manufacturing, both drops being about normal for the time of year.

Earlier the bureau had reported that unemployment rose by 500,000 during November to 3.9 million. This was somewhat more than seasonal. The seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment was 5.9 per cent in November, up from 5.5 per cent in October.

Most changes were along seasonal lines during November, said Harold Goldstein, spokesman for the team presenting the report.

He said the decline in the construction and manufacturing industries was partly offset by the pre-Christmas increase in retail trade and a continuing increase in state and local government employment.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Now I know why the Stroud Community Club was so pleased with their Family Christmas program with the Clark family. With Mother Dotie presiding, and her young daughters, Jocelyn, Shelley and Erin blending their voices in three part harmony that seems incredible for their ages it is a program of rare sweetness and light.

But when the boys got into the act, as they did at the church family night supper, there was also added suspense and laughter. Papa Bob had a typical Clark column, with flashes of insight against the very twists of reality, and Baby Bob rang his sleigh bells in perfect time for the Jingle Bell routine.

But Rob also turned circles, climbed up and down on the Deacon's Seat, led Erin a merry chase, and finally brought about a sort of dissolving kaleidoscope of Clarks: six, four, two, three, then six again with the program miraculously proceeding right on schedule.

It was a memorable family night supper with the three young Giles children making their first on mass appearance since their father became minister, and the youngest Bolland boy joining in the fun and games. It was, in essence, what family night suppers are supposed to be but so often aren't.

Husbands and wives make up a family, to be sure; but it also takes the grandparents and the teenagers and the childless and the widow and the — well, widowers and bachelors are much rarer — to knit everyone into the fabric of a real church family.

It is practically impossible to know a person well as an isolated being. What you get is a sort of silhouette cut-out of a personality. Only when we are lighted by the personalities which are as much part of our lives as our profile or our accent do we become three-dimensional. Maybe even four-dimensional.

Because, as Bob said, it was in a family that the first Christmas really began.

Like Square Spaghetti—

Ancient Velvet Learns New Tricks

By Jean Sprain Wilson

AP Fashion Writer

New York (AP) — Two enduring souvenirs brought back to Italy by that famous traveling salesman, Marco Polo, are spaghetti and velvet.

From the very beginning spaghetti democratically became everybody's dish. But that fabric with a lustrous nap that caught a play of light and was so exciting to touch, it was reserved for kings.

During the Middle Ages velvet became the official fabric of the princes of the church, available only to a privileged few for raincoats, church vestments and noble Europeans. In France blue velvet was reserved exclusively for the King's family.

And yet an occasional commoner did come to know its luxury and beauty. Presumably after the closets and the bed dusters were checked for royal spies, the wife or pinning widow of a soldier would bring out, by her spoils of war, a velvet swatch or garment, to be touched and marveled at by her friends.

Sweet Revenge — It is not known whether Marie Antoinette muttered "Let them wear velvet," before dressing for her own date with the guillotine, but after the French Revolution commoners flouted it, even using velvet at their windows.

Meanwhile Italian housewives were perfecting spaghetti, and Flemish people were becoming experts at velvet weaving. The German people, too, around the 1700s and particularly in Krefeld, were developing the textile talent.

It was not until 1865 that we Americans had any velvets to brag about, but once our textile men got started, there was no stopping us.

Today we can show the Red Chinese a trick or two that their ancestors surely never dreamed of when they whipped up the first furry yard in 2000 B.C.

Brush Hairs — Velvet is woven like a sandwich with two pieces facing each other and the nap in the middle. After the fabric is removed from the loom, a razor shuttles through the sand which divides the filling between the two sides.

A haircut that shears the surface to uniformity, followed by brushing and polishing, was as far as velvet refiners used to go, until chemistry entered the textile picture lately.

Out of the experimental laboratories came rayon, usurping

95 per cent of silk worms' business. Then a limited quantity of nylon velvet was produced which is so indestructible that manufacturers stitch it into children's shoes and storm boots.

New Faces — Velvet, the luxury fabric, was once babied in a steam bath room and carefully packed. Now miracle finishes endow boulevard velvet with crush-resistant and water repellent qualities that enables velvet to become rainwear and ski clothes.

Instead of merely shaving it, textile engineers sometimes sculpture dimensional designs, like floored wallpaper. They weave silver and gold threads into the surface, embroider it with jet, and splash it with color in hundreds of different ways. Recently, because its furry nap makes it a natural, velvet has taken on the spots and stripes of the jungle clan.

Velvet regally commands the best jewels and furs in a woman's wardrobe. Yet if the jewels are rhinestones and the ermine is rabbit, ever — royal velvet still makes a princess out of the Cinderella.

Nor is spaghetti standing still either. One manufacturer has styled it to be square.

Something For Nothing Makes Gifts

Saylorburg — Mrs. Cora Everett of Aquashicola turned scrap into decorative gifts for the members of the Progressive Woman's Club at their meeting held at the Chestnut Hill Twp. School.

A student of arts and crafts, Mrs. Everett demonstrated that he doesn't believe in throwing anything away. Dyed fish scales became hat ornaments. Old wire hangers became bird cages accessorized with an artificial bird, greens, and gilded flowers made of tin can lids.

Buttons became trinkets and she demonstrated how to make flowers and hats.

A male quartet, composed of Charles Snyder, Glenn Woodling, George Martin and Elmer Woodling from the Redders Church sang five songs with Mrs. Alice Frailey at their accompaniment.

Mrs. Oscar Bonser presided at the business meeting and Miss Ella Mills introduced the program.

The club voted to contribute $5 to the TB Christmas Seal campaign, and members contributed dimes for the "Strengthen the Arm of Liberty" project to finance a museum at the Statue of Liberty. Announcement was made of meeting of the ways and means committee at Mrs. Bonser's home in January.

Mrs. Thomas Trach was chairman of the Christmas party with refreshments served by Mrs. Weston Fenner and her committee.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

The other day I was talking about all the lovely gift ideas in our store beginning with the letter M... but I never did work my way through all of them. Not by a long shot.

M... according to Anna Haller of our International Gift Center... stands for MIRRORS. Mirror, mirror on the wall; who is fairest of them all? Well... our mirrors can't tell you that. But those full length ones can certainly tell a woman whether or not her slip is hanging, or keep a man informed as to whether or not he looks like the spruce executive he fancies himself to be. A full length mirror would be a wonderful gift to your household this year... something every member could use and enjoy. Prices begin at 3.98, soaring to 19.50, for something of really superior quality.

We also stock a beautiful selection of decorator mirrors—plate glass, of course—to beautify one's entrance hall or living room. Prices range from 11.50 to 16.50. Another neat plate glass mirror in unusual shape (a 2 3 mirror, I'd say, rather than full length) has a brass rim and a brass ring at the top. I see by the city newspapers they are also recommended for entrance halls as well as bedrooms, and our price is 16.50, a few dollars less than some of the metropolitan stores are asking for the same thing.

For the vanity dresser we have an easel-back mirror at 2.98 that has a charming antiqued-white frame. This is oval, I seem to recall, although I omitted the fact from my notes. Another rectangular type mirror—tall and slender—ideal for vanity dresser, is an easel back glass framed in gilt Syroco of floral design. It is choice and looks more costly than our Wyckoff tag of 6.50.

M is for the manger, without which Christmas wouldn't seem Christmasy in our home... how about yours? We have quite a selection, ranging in price from 98c, or perhaps even less, to something over five dollars. If you can't find the one you are seeking in our International Gift Center, try the Trim-a-Tree Shop on our second floor.

M is for Fire Magic... twelve cones of it to toss into your fireplace when the fire is blazing. You'll be enchanted with all the colors that appear out of nowhere. It is truly magic, and the price of 1.25 is somewhat mystifying... you are getting so much beauty for so little. M is also for the long-stemmed matches that make hearthfire tending easy and safe. Some of these matches are packed in really lovely boxes. They are imports from Japan... Italy... Sweden, I believe, priced from 1.00 up.

M is for Mexican onyx in bookend starting at 5.00 in tiny knick knacks for a mere few cents... and in lidded dresser boxes at 2.98. M is also for milk glass and we have a choice selection priced from 2.25. That's the price of a candle holder.

M is for Mocha Sticks in our Candy Department... the Patria brand which you love, neatly packed in a Delft-like tin box at 1.00. And this isn't an M, but it's Mmmmmmm delicious: the Patria fruit cake, from New Orleans, loaded with nuts, fruit, and something else—(you guess.) Twenty-four slides, each wax-paper wrapped and ribbon tied, are 4.25... individuals (15 in fluted cups) are 3.25.

And M is for matched sets of EVERYTHING... boudoir lamps... sweaters... jewelry. Why don't you take it from there?

WIRT D. MILLER'S... "Gifts in good taste"... go ahead! Give the BOSS some real Yummy Foods. He'll love it! (from Miller's of course)

Mark's Gospel Relates The Fisherman's Story Of Jesus

Editor's Note — The Apostle Mark's description of the life of Christ is one of direct action, the straightforward thunder of a mighty step on earth. Mark's source was Peter, also a man of direct action. Third in a series of articles on the composition of the original stories of Christmas.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press
Religion Writer

Listening to the Stalwart old fisherman, Simon Peter, it sometimes was hard to tell the exact sequence of events. Mark desired to set them down in rightful order, as truly as he could.

Yet much remained strange and overwhelming. Whither the end? And how the beginning?

"My son," the aging apostle said, spreading his arms like twin spars on a mast, "once we had not received mercy, but now we have received mercy." His eyes glowed in his wrinkled, windburned face.

Mark sat on a three-legged stool, with a waxed tablet on his lap, a stylus motionless in his hand, waiting for Peter to continue.

"We did not follow cleverly devised myths when we made known the power and coming of Our Lord Jesus Christ," he said stoutly. "We were eyewitnesses of His majesty."

"Do not be surprised at the fiery ordeal that comes," Peter said. "If one suffers as a Christian, let him not be ashamed." Mark realized that ominous portents were abroad. Already many believers had died, or been imprisoned simply for "the name's sake." It was this, in part, that gave urgency to completion of the book.

Elders and deacons of various congregations, both when he had been in Antioch and Corinth and now in Rome, had besought him, as assistant to Peter, to record the chief apostle's own account of the time of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Peter himself lacked patience or training for the task, but none knew so well the astounding manifestations. He was a great talker, with a sharp memory, but no writer.

It fell to Mark to set down these remembrances for the "Followers of the Way." Yet a question best Mark's work — what were the origins of Jesus? From whence did He come?

Peter dwelt on the resultant action, but not on background or explanations.

And Mark shunned any conjectures. An elder of the period is quoted in an ancient document: "Mark, having become interpreter to Peter . . . kept a single view in aim, not to omit anything of what he heard, or to state anything falsely."

Surely Peter must have known the derivation of it all. And yet . . .

The old apostle nodded enigmatically. "God was with Him." He rose abruptly to his feet, a great bulk of a man with untimely beard, obviously intent on starting his rounds, still musing aloud. . . . He went about doing good and healing all that were oppressed . . .

Followed Peter
Mark followed Peter to the street. Always, it seemed, they were on the move.

That was the character and habit of Peter, of "Cephas the Rock." Impulsive, blunt, demonstrative, a man of tumultuous action — the man who denounced himself as unworthy, the man who tried to walk on water and sank, the man who swore fidelity to Christ only to deny Him and return to fishing, the man who jumped overboard and scrambled ashore at sight of the risen Christ.

The year now was in the middle of the first century. While Mark's gospel may have been compiled as early as 40 A.D., about 10 years after the crucifixion and resurrection, the predominant evidence puts it between 50 and 62 A.D.

Nero had become emperor in 54 A.D. after his mother, Agrippina, plotted the poisoning of his predecessor, Claudius. Thereafter, the vain, erratic Nero had her and various other members of his family murdered.

Dire reckoning stalked those mockingly dubbed the "Christians" or "The Third Race," neither Jew nor Gentile, and the worst was yet to come.

Apostles Tortured
The apostle Paul had been stoned, flogged and kept in chains for two years at the foot of the Caesian Hill. Even before, the apostle James was beheaded in Palestine; Stephen was fatally stoned; Jesus' kinsman, another James, was hurled from a temple wall and clubbed to death. Peter had broken jail.

Yet the tidings spread, penetrating even the imperial household and legions, among freedmen and slaves.

Now Peter, approaching 70, visited tirelessly among the brethren in Rome, strengthening them with his assurance, accompanied by Mark.

"An inheritance which is imperishable," Peter exulted repeatedly.

John Mark himself had not been among the close circle around Jesus, but Mark's mother, Mary Bath-Nabas, a wealthy Jerusalem widow, had provided her large house as a meeting place for the disciples. Mark had been a boy then.

He recalled the suspenseful hours of their visits, especially that night of the Last Supper, when he followed them to the lonely Garden of Gethsemane, invaded suddenly by flaring lights, curt voices and Roman constabulary.

Peter had drawn his sword, whacked off an official's ear. Mark had fled terrified, losing his coat to a soldier who lunged for him.

"Later, in manhood, he had traveled as an evangelist with Paul and his uncle, Bar-Nabas. His resolute will made him known as 'The Lion.' At one time, he forsook Paul in protest against accepting non-Jewish converts.

They eventually became reconciled, however, after Peter also yielded to Paul's view that Christ came for all men, equally Jew and Gentile, slave and free. 'Truly . . . ' Peter now affirmed, 'God shows no partiality.'"

Mark, even with his years of labor for the cause, still depended on Peter for his firsthand narrative of the divine visitation.

The two weaved unheeded through Rome's crowded streets.

Here and there, they slipped into a humble abode, a quiet synagogue, or climbed a hill to a private grotto, for talk, hymns and prayer.

"Grace be unto you," Peter would sing out to the little flocks. Whatever the circumstance, Mark added to his notes.

And the apostle spoke almost exclusively of deeds, rather than analysis. "Straightway we went . . . " he would begin some episode. Incident would follow incident, healings, storms at sea, children, multitudes, hunger, Jesus' anger, grief, tears. "Straightway, He departed . . . " a strenuous succession of activity.

Yet something seemed missing. Should not the memoirs include some indication of Jesus' antecedents, some explanation of His being?

At length, Mark was dispatched to Alexandria, bidding farewell to Peter and other workers in Rome — Luke, Silvanus, Timothy. Not long thence, in the wake of the great fire of July, 64 A.D., Nero unleashed massive violence against Christians.

Hundreds were thrown to wild beasts, impaled on horns of bulls, dragged by horses, doused with oil and publicly burned. Peter was crucified, head downward at his request, in honor to his Lord. Paul was beheaded on the Ostian Way.

In Alexandria, tradition tells Mark was dragged through the streets and killed in 62 or 63 A.D.

"In those days Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan. And when he came up out of the water, immediately . . . a voice came from heaven, 'Thou art My beloved Son; with Thee I am well pleased.'"

That oldest written story of Christmas to be handed down to posterity in its original form, with its mixture of Peter's colloquial Aramaic showing through the Greek in which Mark composed it, contains nothing about Jesus' birth. His infancy, His parentage. It is brief, vigorous, unpolished, natural.

It begins, as it ends, in a rush of mature action, just as the Galilean fisherman lived it. It offers no rationalizations, simply the thunder of a mighty step on earth.

" . . . Now after John was arrested, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of God, and saying, 'The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent, and believe in the gospel.'"

THE CUSTOMERS WRITE

Dear Ken:

My sincere congratulations to you on your recent column concerning the forming of the Pocono-Slate Belt League.

My only wish is that through a media like you have available, some of the thoughts of people can get to the Athletic Councils of each school, where the decisions are made.

There is no doubt in my mind that a league of this kind can be of tremendous value to each school involved — financially, economically, spiritually and competition-wise.

Potentially, this could become one of the closest-knit leagues in the state, if there are enough men on each Athletic Council who will vote and give an honest answer to themselves, their school and their fans. The mountains need this league. I hope that in a very near future such a decision can be made favorably.

Again, congratulations to you on your efforts in bringing this to the public. The very best of luck.

Sincerely,
Steve Marciw

NOTEBOOK LEFTOVERS: Glenn Bishong of Stroud Union saw little action this past football campaign (he suffered a fractured forearm against Pen Argyl) but his brilliant performances on the gridiron still placed him on the first team of the Lehigh Valley League. Selections were made by the league coaches who could not vote for their own players.

Named to the honorable mention list were Stroud Union's Bob Roberson, fullback; Freddy Frantz, quarterback; and Mike Thurston, center.

Scholastic basketball stars of the young season in the Pocono-Slate Belt area include:

Dave Turzilo, of Pen Argyl; Skippy Kintz and Dave Pierson, of Stroud Union; Russ Scott and Bill Reese, of East Stroudsburg; (keep your eyes on Doug Hilgard, too); Pete Speer and John Heard, of Bangor; Dave Ruchman, of Pocono Mountain, and Ken Bowman, of Pleasant Valley.

Films of the East Stroudsburg-Stroud Union Thanksgiving Day battle this year will be shown by former Mountaineer Coach Jerry Stulgaitis at tonight's meeting of the Varsity "S" Club in the Municipal Building at 8 p. m., it was announced yesterday by Fred Fetherman, club president.

East Stroudsburg State College Wrestling Coach Red Witman is off to a fine start with a strong squad this year. Before last night's match against Elizabethtown, the Warrior matmen had rolled over their first four opponents. This is a young team, too. The Warriors are one of the reasons that interest in this sport is on the rise in the Poconos.

A spokesman for the NFL quickly scotched the story. "No one in this office has ever heard of any such thing," he said. "No such program has been submitted here for the league meeting."

The NFL meets Jan. 28 at Miami.

At the AFL, Assistant Commissioner Milt Woodard said: "No one in this office has heard of any such thing."

Bob Oates, writing in the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, said there has been a change of mind by some of the NFL owners in the cold war with the AFL and peace is in the offing.

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Warrior grapplers of East Stroudsburg State College remained undefeated last night, claiming their fifth straight win of the season with a 28-0 decision over visiting Elizabethtown.

Coach Red Witman's ESSC matmen registered their second shutout of the campaign while handing Elizabethtown its first defeat in two outings.

Five Warriors also remained undefeated for the season — Jan Dutt (123), Bud Lawrence (174), Chet Dalgiewicz (157), Dick Bell (167) and heavy-weight Roy Miller.

Bob Guzzo, also undefeated, is still nursing a bad knee.

ESSC has dropped only four individual matches in its five contests.

ESSC's Frank Blizzard (177) registered the only pin of the night, stopping Jim Owen in 2:55 with a half nelson, chicken wing.

The Warriors do not wrestle again until Jan. 11 at Lebanon Valley.

College Grid
Attendance Up

NEW YORK (AP) — College football attendance rose for the 10th consecutive year in 1963 to a record of over 22 million, despite the voluntary loss of a quarter of a million admissions when 34 games were canceled because of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Statistics released Wednesday by the NCAA Service Bureau show a record jump of 1,009,932 over the 1962 season, with total attendance running to 22,237,094.

Bob Miller got Stroud Union on the scoreboard in the second match, pinning Eastburg's Rick Lehman in 5:34 with a half nelson.

Dutch Grimm and John Chanana then gained back-to-back decisions for the Mountaineers and George Van Buskirk followed with another pin over East Stroudsburg's John Bertucci.

Appleton
Traded
For Dial

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League traded pass-catching flanker back Buddy Dial Wednesday to the Dallas Cowboys for the rights to Scott Appleton, a University of Texas lineman who was the Cowboys' first draft pick.

Steelers Coach Buddy Parker said he made the trade to obtain defensive help. He said he has plenty of pass receivers, including Paul Marth of Pitt and Jim Kelly of Notre Dame, both Steelers picks in the recent NFL draft.

Dial just completed his fifth year in the NFL. During the 1963 season, he caught 60 passes for 1,295 yards, and tallied nine touchdowns.

The Steelers pointed out that the 6-foot-3, 235-pound Appleton will not have completed his college football eligibility until after Texas plays in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas on Jan. 1 and cannot be signed to a professional contract until then.

No. 1 Pick

Appleton was the No. 1 pick of the Houston Oilers in the American Football League's draft.

In discussing the swap, Parker said he had to do something to bolster the Steelers' defense.

"We just have to improve defensively, and I figure Appleton will be a mighty big start in the right direction," Parker said. "I realize that giving up Dial is giving up a good player but we are loaded with receivers."

We have Marth, (Red) Mack, (Gary) Ballman, (Roy) Curry, (John) Burrell, and Kelly."

"In other words," Parker continued, "we had to sacrifice a little offense to bolster the defense, and defense still is a mighty important part of the game."

Leaky Defense

During the 1963 season, the Steelers gave up 295 points, trailing seven other NFL teams in that department.

Opposing teams rushed the Steelers' defense for a net yardage of 1,728 yards and opposing quarterbacks connected for a net of 3,101 yards through the air.

Parker said Appleton could be used in two positions on defense. "Of course," he said, "We don't know right now whether to say Appleton will be at tackle or end, but he can play either place and we need help at both spots."

"We also have the man to replace Dial," Parker said. "He will be Marth, the kid from Pitt. Paul has the ability to be a terrific pro. He has plenty of speed, can change directions with ease and has good hands. As of now, he has to be figured as our new flanker back."

Broncos' Joe
Rookie Of '63

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Joe, a powerfully built young man who was a shot putter at Villanova before he joined the Denver Broncos as a fullback, has been voted Rookie of the Year in the American Football League by a panel of 24 sports writers and sportscasters for The Associated Press.

Billy Joe, a 6-foot-2, 245-pounder from Coatesville, Pa., has been the big man in Denver's running game all season. He started strong and has ranked among the top 10 rushers during most of the season.

The Broncos drafted Joe No.

11 last year and Washington of the National Football League made him their No. 9 choice. Joe surpassed the record of Curt McClinton of the Kansas City Chiefs (then Dallas Texans) as the top ground gaining rookie fullback in the brief history of the league. The Denver fullback carried 151 times for 648 yards in the first 13 games. McClinton made 604 yards in 1962. McClinton, incidentally, was the 1962 rookie of the year.

Joe's success story climaxed a long uphill battle from his school days in Pennsylvania. He had rheumatic fever as a senior in high school and lost several offers of football scholarships.

Jumbo Jim Elliott at Villanova offered Joe a scholarship as a shot putter, although he weighed only 190 pounds. He skipped freshman football but took another physical examination and got an okay to play as a sophomore. A weight-lifting program had boosted his weight to about 230 pounds at that time. At Villanova he played in the Sun Bowl game and the Liberty Bowl game.

Offense,
Defense
See-Saw

NEW YORK (AP) — It will be New York's high-powered offense against the Chicago Bears top-ranked defense in the National Football League title game Dec. 29 at Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Giants led the league in total offense with 5,024 yards while winning their third straight Eastern Conference title. They were second in passing with 3,247 yards to Baltimore's 3,296 and seventh in rushing with 1,777 yards. The Cleveland Browns were first in rushing with 2,639 yards.

The Bears, winning their first Western crown since 1956, gave up only 3,176 yards, lowest in the league. They also had the best rushing defense with 1,442 yards and the best pass defense with only 1,734 yards.

Opposite Ends

The title game opponents are at opposite ends of the scoring figures. The Giants led the league with 448 points and the Bears' defense allowed the fewest points, 144 in 14 games.

New York also led in first downs, 278; first downs passing, 164; pass completion percentage, 57.0; total touchdowns, 57; touchdowns passing, 39; and extra points, 52.

Chicago permitted the least average yards a rush, 3.5, fewest pass completions, 164; lowest pass completion percentage by opponents, 46.5; total touchdowns allowed, 18 and fewest TDs running, eight. They also showed the way in interceptions with 36.

Fielding

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles, led by record-breaker Luis Aparicio and third baseman Brooks Robinson, took team and individual American League fielding honors last season.

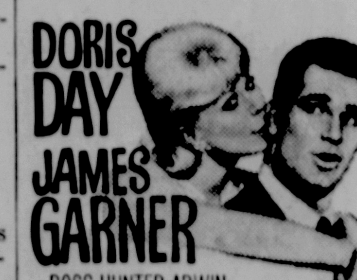

This was reported Wednesday in the final official averages.

They showed that Aparicio broke a league record for shortstops by finishing with a .9826 average. He edged Chicago's Ron Hansen, who wound up with .9825 and also eclipsed the standard of 1962 set by Cleveland's Lou Boudreau in 1947.

It was the fifth straight season that Aparicio topped the AL shortstops in fielding. The Orioles acquired him from the White Sox last winter.

Robinson and first baseman Jim Gentile were the other Orioles' fielding leaders. Robinson had a .976 average in heading the third basemen for the fourth consecutive season.

Gentile, recently traded to Kansas City, had a .953 average while Joe Pepitone of the New York Yankees was second with .951.

Al Davis Voted Coach Of Year

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Al Davis passed the credit to his Oakland Raider players Wednesday when he learned he had been voted Coach of the year in the American Football League.

"I think the most important thing was the receptiveness of the players to our approach to football," said the 34-year coach and general manager of the Raiders. "Our approach was a dedication to the desire to build an image we all would be proud of on and off the field. We had a lot of players who decided they had the same goal in mind."

Davis was honored by an Associated Press panel of 24 football writers from the league's eight cities because he took a team that lost 13 straight in 1962 and converted it into a contender in one short year.

Davis, a quick-smiling, curly-haired executive who looks like a football player, was hired in January and given a free rein after the Raiders had spent three years as the doormat of the league.

"I came here knowing a ball club had to be built," he said. "We were quite fortunate in acquiring people to help us do it."

Among the most important additions were end Art Powell and middle linebacker Arch Matsos, two of Oakland's six representatives on the AP's All-AFL first team. Davis secured Powell when the speedy pass-catcher was all set to go to Canada after playing out his option with the old New York Titans. Matsos was dissatisfied with the Buffalo coaching situation.

Davis switched Bo Roberson, the Olympic broad jump silver medalist, from running back to flanker. He lured defensive back Joe Krakoski out of retirement and helped quarterback Tom Flores find his way back after missing a season due to a lung infection.

Villanova Tops Toledo, 63-59

PHILADELPHIA (AP) Villanova University, using alert ballhawking and an aggressive defense, knocked Toledo University from the unbeaten ranks Wednesday night 63-59 in the first game of a Penn State basketball doubleheader.

Temple met Manhattan in the nightcap.

Toledo, which had won its previous six games, could score only one point in the first five minutes and did not get a field goal until Larry Jones connected at 14:20.

Villanova's flashy Jones boy—Wally, repeatedly exhibited outstanding ball handling and passing. He led the Wildcats scorers with 18 points. Toledo's Raymond Wolford led all scoring with 20.

Wolford, making only one for nine in the first half, made his last six goals in a row.

Villanova is now 5-1.

$58,711.61 Refund Set For County

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Payment of $58,711.61 has been approved for Monroe County by the State Department of Revenue as the county's share of an $8.9 million refund to counties throughout the state from liquid fuels tax collections for the six-month period ended December 1.

The department said the money must be spent by the commissioners within the corporate limits of the county for construction, improvement and maintenance of county roads and bridges. The funds are allocated to townships and boroughs within the county at the discretion of the commissioners — not the Department of Revenue.

In June the county received $16,293.11 in liquid fuels tax refunds covering the first half of 1963. As a point of comparison with the $58,711.61 six-month payment that has just been approved, Monroe County for the comparable second half period of 1962 received $59,386.60.

The statewide allocation of $8,959,377.57 is $1,895,059.41 higher than for the preceding six-month period but $103,003.87 lower than the amount returned during the corresponding period a year ago.

Pageant At Eastburg Presbyterian

EAST STROUDSBURG — The birth of Christ will be celebrated via a pageant Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the East Stroudsburg United Presbyterian Church.

Members of the Women's Association are in charge of the order of worship. Those who have been appointed to assist the pastor are Mrs. Lawrence Musselman, Mrs. Pauline Hope, Mrs. Frank Randall and Mrs. Harvey Huffman.

Before the pageant, David Jesse Whittaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whittaker; Susan Louise Christian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Christian; and Susan Alice McClay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McClay, will receive the Sacrament of Baptism.

Those who are planning to unite with the church on this occasion are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Albite, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Deiter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Flory, Mrs. Jerome Rine, Mrs. Donald Schell, and Mr. Robert Whittaker.

The Chancel Choir has planned to sing two anthems and the Junior Choir will present a Carol.

7 Judgeship Openings Filled

HARRISBURG (AP) — Seven judgeships were filled yesterday by appointments of Gov. Scranton.

All of the appointees were named to terms ending on Jan. 3, 1966. Those appointed are:

Alexander R. Curran, Washington, for the Washington County Common Pleas Court. He will fill a vacancy created by the death of Judge George T. Cummins.

P. Richard Thomas, Meadville, to fill a Crawford County Common Pleas Court post created by the 1963 legislature.

Francis J. Catania, Woodlyn, to fill a Delaware County Common Pleas Court post created by the 1963 legislature.

George P. Klester, Slippery Rock, to fill a Butler County Common Pleas Court post created by the 1963 legislature.

Samuel H. Jubeiner, Altoona, to fill a Blair County Common Pleas Court post created by the 1963 legislature.

Edwin H. Satterthwaite, Doylestown, to fill a Bucks County Orphans Court post created by the 1963 legislature.

Satterthwaite presently is serving as a Common Pleas Court judge in Bucks County.

Paul R. Beckert, Levittown, to replace Satterthwaite on the Common Pleas Bench.

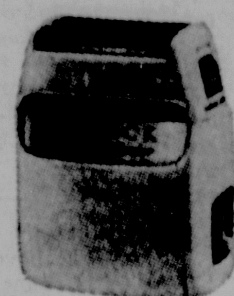

Reports Listed Are Disgraceful

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told senators yesterday that published reports about differences among the nation's top military chiefs were "disgraceful."

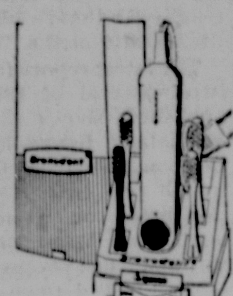

But an unusual personal appeal by McNamara failed to win requested prompt approval for a promotion and broader authority for Gen. Andrew Jackson Goodpastor, now assistant to Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Sharp questions by senators and pointed replies by McNamara at an open hearing of the Senate Armed Services Committee resulted in a decision to delay action on the Goodpastor nomination.

Coloring Pine Cones For Fireplaces

By George Abraham

COLORING CONES: Each year about this time I receive many requests for information on coloring pine cones for the fireplace. You really don't color the cones, but treat them so they'll burn all colors of the rainbow.

It's a simple matter to treat the cones. The biggest job is to find the chemicals for treatment. Most drug stores handle them, but they are hesitant about selling them in small quantities.

Perhaps the best method is to order the chemicals in larger amounts and share the expense with your garden club members or neighbors who are interested in treating the cones.

Here are the chemicals and the colors: Barium nitrate (blue); copper sulfate (bluish); strontium nitrate (red); calcium chloride (orange); copper chloride (green); lithium chloride or potassium permanganate (purple).

The simplest and best method for treating is to dip the cones (or small blocks of wood) into a solution of the chemical. Use a wooden tub or pail, or an earthen crock, as the chemicals may destroy metal. A metal bucket is fine if you don't value it.

Dissolve the chemical in water, one pound to one gallon of water. Place the cones in a cloth mesh bag (onion sack) and immerse in the solution.

Since many of the chemicals will stain hands, use rubber gloves. Potassium permanganate in particular leaves dark brownish stains which remain a long time.

Remove cones, after soaking in solution for 10 to 15 minutes; let them drain over night. When dry, they are ready to use for the fireplace.

POINSETTIAS: Of all the poinsettias (red, white and pink) the white ones last the longest. Some readers tell me they keep their white plants as long as six months. Pink types last almost as long, with the reds being shortest-lived of all.

What can you do to get more mileage from your poinsettia? First, keep it well supplied with water at all times. Avoid high temperatures (above 75 degrees) and at night place the plant in a cool hall. A bright window is fine, but direct sun is not needed. Avoid drafts or a place near the radiator. Hot rooms cause leaves to turn yellow and drop. Dry soils will do the same.

After flowering is over, grow the plant somewhat on the dry side and store in a cool room. In May, cut the plant back to within six inches from the pot, then sink the pot in the garden for the summer.

Keep it watered until first of September, when you can bring it indoors for another show. We'll tell you how to make the plant bloom for the holidays later.

ANOTHER GROUND COVER: One of the best evergreens with a trailing habit is the Bearberry, having a jaw-breaking latin name of Arctostaphylos uva-ursi. Bearberry grows only eight to ten inches tall, has handsome foliage and does well in sun or partial shade. It flowers in May, has red berries in Summer or early winter and birds are fond of them.

ALUMINUM PLANT: Here is a new and popular house plant. Plant from the fact that it has patches of aluminum. These blisters are full of air, giving the aluminum effect.

You'll find the aluminum plant listed as Pilea caderei. It produces nonspectacular flowers, grows 12 inches or more in sun or semi-shade. Plant is happiest in a warm, humid atmosphere.

Start new plants from cuttings from the tips which can be rooted in plain tap water.

GLOXINIA NOTES: Gardeners who put their gloxinias in the cellar for a rest are surprised to find the plant is sprouting. That's a signal to take the plant out of storage and pot it immediately. Gloxinias like a humusy mixture, and our old standby is one-third sand, one-third peat and one-third loam. Give the plant a bright window and a room temperature of 72 degrees. They need shade from direct sun, but too little shade will cause them to be tall and lanky.

By turning the plant every three or four days you get a better shaped specimen. Gloxinias will bloom almost any time of the year, although it's easiest to get them to bloom in summer or early fall.

When your plant is mature, start new ones by cutting off medium-sized leaves and rooting them in a glass of plain tap water.

GROWING PEARS: If you ask any gardener what the best pear is, chances are he'll tell you Bartlett.

This is understandable because no variety excels Bartlett in widespread popularity at home or abroad. About the only fault it has is its pronounced susceptibility to fire blight disease. Fruit men are attempting to produce another pear with the desirable flavor of Bartlett, and with resistance to fire blight. So far no one has come up with one.

Here are some other favorites you might want to try, or at least look over when your nursery catalog comes in your home: Clapp Favorite; has fine flavor and good appearance. Early Seckel, desirable because it precedes Bartlett by a few days.

There's a new one called Max-Red, a mutation of Bartlett. Beurre Bosc has an excellent flavor but is very susceptible to fire blight. Dana Hoevey is ideal for the home garden due to its superior flavor.

If you plan to grow pears, plan to set out at least two varieties for a better set of fruit.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. E. of Kunkletown: "I ordered a flower called 'Star of Bethlehem' from a firm in Africa. No instructions came with the package, and I hope you can tell us what care it needs."

Various plants are called "Star of Bethlehem", but the one you refer to is known as Chin-cher-in-chee. We've tried these items from Africa and find they're easy to force into bloom. When they arrived they were dead, but it was amazing to see how fast they recovered.

First, you cut off the greased bottom half inch of each stem while it's held under water (this excludes air bubbles).

Place the stems in a deep vase and immerse in warm water. Place vase in a cool, dark room. After a day, refill vase with 2 inches of warm water, keeping the flowers in a dark room.

After that, the flowers may be brought into a bright room. It's a good idea to add fresh water or change the old water every day. Keep in subdued light and in a cool room for lasting effect. With proper care, the flowers will last four weeks or longer.

D. E. of Mount Bethel: "We use the old clay flower pots for geraniums and other plants. I understand these pots shouldn't be used because they harbor diseases. Is that true?"

Partly so, but that shouldn't stop you from using these pots. Needless to say, greenhouse operators all over the country use the same pots year after year without experiencing heavy losses.

Where Bartlett and Seckel are planted, a third variety is needed as Bartlett and Seckel will not pollinate each other.

Old clay pots may harbor disease spores, but so does the soil you use for filling the pots. These pots may also harbor considerable amounts of unused fertilizer salts which may be released to the moist soil and damage some roots of tender plants.

That crusty, white material you see on the outside of pots is residue from hard water and is nothing to worry about. You can sterilize your pots by dipping them in a tub of water for a couple days. While you're soaking them, you might scrub the pots with a stiff brush to remove the green algae.

G. B. of Mendham: "Please tell us how we can treat sprays of evergreen and holly so the needles and leaves won't shed and drop indoors."

Try spraying with one of the anti-wilt compounds used for evergreens outdoors. Or you

Illegitimate Births High

DUNOON, Scotland (AP) — This town on the Holy Loch, where the U.S. Polaris submarines are based, has become officially Scotland's black spot for illegitimate births.

The latest report from the registrar-general of Scotland, just published, shows that the illegitimacy figure last year in Dunoon rose from 6.3 per cent to 5.3 per cent. These figures are based on a much higher birth rate than formerly, and the news has staggered this already-shocked town.

A local official, who asked not to be identified by name, blamed American sailors for the increase, saying: "It would be quite accurate to say that the majority of these illegitimate babies had American fathers."

William Wring, who because of President Kennedy's death cancelled his trip for busloads of guests desiring to spend a weekend in Water Gap and tour the Poconos, found that all wanted to keep their reservations for a future date. He plans to bring them here the week-end of January 10 and prospects are that one hundred will come.

...A Very Valuable Gift

YOURS WILL ARRIVE ON JANUARY 2

PROBABLY the world's most priceless gift. Yet it won't cost you a cent. Just one requirement. You have to be present (in the flesh) on January 2.

Since there is a limited supply of these very valuable gifts, the following people are not eligible. (They won't be around on January 2, anyway.)

The Reckless Ones, who don't pay any attention to traffic laws. The Foolish Ones, who don't allow themselves enough time to complete their trip safely. The Careless Ones, who ignore road, weather and traffic conditions. The Childish Ones, who can't keep their minds on their driving. And the Crazy Ones, who mix drinking and driving.

Stay away from them. Any one of them can keep you from making that all-important appearance on January 2. Any one of them can kill your chances of receiving that very valuable gift—your life.

The holidays bring out the best in people—and holiday driving brings out the worst. So, to keep your date with life on January 2, be on the alert for the careless, the reckless, the foolish, the crazy and the childish.

Don't let them cross you off the gift list.

Pike Manufacturing Force Increases 13 In Past Year

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — The number of workers in Pike County manufacturing industries climbed 13 during the past year to a total work force of 130, a State Department of Internal Affairs industrial survey of the county showed today.

The number of manufacturing plants in the county showed a decline — inching downward from 19 to 17.

Payrolls of these 17 manufacturing plants amounted to $415,800 in wages and salaries — up from the 1961 figure of $336,300.

During the past year the county had five establishments in the lumber and wood products category employing 14 persons and wages and salaries of $35,900 while "all other" industries consisted of 12 plants, 116 employees and wages and salaries of $379,900.

Other industries included food and kindred products, two plants; textile mill products, one; printing and publishing, one; chemicals and allied products, one; rubber and plastics products, one; fabricated metal products, two; non-electrical machinery, two; and transportation equipment, one.

Total value of production in the county stood at $1,459,560 — an upswing over the 1961 figure of $1,383,000. Value added by manufacture was listed at $799,500 as compared with the previous year's $726,000.

Capital expenditures in 1962 for Pike County manufacturing industries totaled $37,000 — down from the $49,300 spent in 1961.

Look At The Prospectus

By William A. Doyle
Q. Several months ago my broker told me about a new issue of stock that was coming out, at $23.50 a share. He said all this stock would be sold out fast and recommended that I purchase some. I bought 200 shares.

Almost immediately after this the market price of the stock started to go down. It is now quoted around $14 a share. My broker says he cannot understand this, as the data in the prospectus indicated that the stock should have a value around $23.50 a share.

I didn't see the prospectus but it seems to me that there must be something wrong with any prospectus which indicates a value that drops so drastically. What are your comments?

A. It would seem that an explanation of "prospectus" is in order.

A prospectus (which usually comes in booklet form) is actually a boiled-down version of a registration statement.

When a large amount of stock is offered for sale to the investing public, as in the case you cite, the offering must be registered with the U.S. Securities & Exchange Commission and a registration statement must be filed with the SEC.

That registration statement contains detailed information about the stock and the company involved. A prospectus provides the same information, but, because it is smaller, in somewhat less detail.

Neither a registration statement nor a prospectus will indicate the future market price of the stock involved. After a stock is offered for sale and the offering is completed, the market price may go up or down.

And here's an important point. In the case of a registered offering, each buyer of the stock is supposed to receive a copy of the prospectus. If your broker did not send you a copy of the effective prospectus, he fractured rules and regulations all over the place.

Q. I have asked, at three different banks, for information about some Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds, I own. I received three different answers. So, this adds up to no answer at all.

Where can I get straight information? I am thoroughly confused.

A. You're not alone in your confusion. Please don't pick on the banks, on this count. U.S. Savings Bonds are a most involved subject. I edited your letter way down, because it had more questions than could possibly be answered in this space.

Most banks make a very great effort to cooperate with the Treasury Department, in the U.S. Savings Bond program. But, believe me, it's not easy to keep up with all the details. You might have asked the wrong people at those banks.

Here's my suggestion. Go back to any one of those banks. Ask to see the officer in charge of the Savings Bond program. He should be able to provide you with complete information. If he doesn't have the answer at his fingertips, a phone call to the nearest Federal Reserve Bank will get it for you.

Q. Is it possible, within a reasonable degree of certainty, to learn how many different stocks are traded in the over-the-counter market—not on stock exchanges?

A. No, it is not. There are literally tens of thousands of stocks of different companies that can be bought and sold in the "counter" market. But no one has any accurate count of the real number.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check off one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Bankers Group Endorses Jobless Pay Amendments

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Bankers Association has endorsed the proposed amendments to the State's Unemployment Compensation Law. The association believes that gross inequities in the present law must be promptly removed, according to PBA President Howard C. Peterson, president, Fidelity - Philadelphia Trust Co.

Hearings on the amendments are currently being conducted in the State Capitol by the Joint State Government Commission.

The most urgently needed revision, Peterson emphasized, is elimination of loose eligibility requirements for benefits which have siphoned off money for the benefit of other than deserving unemployed.

The PBA president also said that the present unemployment compensation tax rate on employers discourages new industry from locating in Pennsylvania and puts the Commonwealth at a competitive disadvantage with other industrial states.

Under the present law, employers with a low labor turnover pay a higher contribution rate into the Unemployment Compensation Fund than the burden their unemployed workers place upon the Fund, according to Peterson.
